TENNESSEE'S TOGA

TILL WITHOUT A WEARER.

The Tennessee Legislature Still Seeking a Leader Out of the Wilderness—Pennsylvania's Cold Shoulder For Mr. Oliver, Etc.

NASHVILLE, January 20.—A resolution was offered in the house by a republican to-day contesting the seat of Duncan B. Cooper, democrat, from Williamson and Laurens counties, but no action was taken. Mr. Cooper says he is willing that an investigation should be made.

The eleventh ballot for United States senator stood as follows: Maynard, 35; Bate, 31; Bailey, 14; Harrison, 5; Wm. Smith, 4; Bright, 3; R. L. Taylor, 2; Edwards, 1; D. B. Thomas 1. The convention adjourned until to-morrow at 12 o'clock.

The republican speaker of the house yesterday ruled that the convention having adjourned the house was not in session The same point was made in the senate by more than one republican senator, who claimed immediately on reaching the senate amber that the senate was not in session id could not be called to order.

Commenting on the continued balloting the Daily American says:

The two houses will meet in convention again to-day, and proceed with their effort to conclude their labors. The voting, so far, shows only that neither party is entirely solid. It, however, clearly demonstrates that the democrats are in the majority, and if they fail to elect some good, true and sound democrat to the United states senate, the people of Tennessee and the democracy of the union will know the name of him who deserts or be-rays. It would be a notoriety most unenviable to be damned with such an immortality.

The situation may be thus briefly summed up: The republicans, by their determined effort to try the steer r case upon half the evidence—to cut off 30 minutes' speaking with the view to forge a verdict in their own favor—compelled the democr ts to ask for time to prepare their case. This was refused as to time to prepare the minority report. To cut off all debate they proposed the previous question and the democrats were compelled to exercise all the rights of a minority to compel debate. The republicans have been caught in a trap which they set themselves. But for this determination to override all law everything would have gone off early. The democrats, warned of their in-ten to defeat the ends of justice by trying to fight upon a half cock, met in session and then declined to adjourn. The whole of the two houses can take recess from day to day, and a majority of fifty-one is a The republicans will hardly undertake themselves, for it would prevent a quorum. They would be giving up their last privilege at the death. This is what being comes to. The democrats should now ay with much emphasis—"go slow and plenty"—mare no mistake, be in no ot ty to force an election. Tennessee to be well represented. That is the people more than simply to be represented the republicans are willing to submit h, then the democrats should always to take up the proper line of regular

PENNSYLVANIA.

HARRISBURG, January 20.—The third joint ballot for United States senator was taken in to-day by the legislature without voting an election. The only change m the former ballot was that Clarke and duhn, of Philadelphia, who had previously voted for Oliver, voted for A. Louden Snowden.

The fourth ballot was then taken and resulted as follows: Wallace, 92; Oliver, 88; Grow, 54; Snowden, 4; Hoyt, 2; MacVeagh, 1; Agnew, 1; Brewster, 1; Baird, 1. The convention then adjourned until to-morrow.

WISCONSIN.

MADISON, January 20.—Philetus Sawyer was nominated by the republican caucus last night for United States senator.

OHIO.

COLUMBUS, January 20.—Secretary Sherman spent several hours with Governor Foster in the executive office, where he was called upon by many leading men from all parts of Ohio. He also visited the legislature. A recess was taken to allow him to be personally introduced. During this ceremony Governor Foster stood at his right and assisted in presenting the members. Mr. Sherman dined with Governor Foster, ex-Governor Dennison and a small party of friends at the Park hotel, and held a reception in the senate chamber, which was largely attended.

ITCHING FOR A BUREAU.

COLUMBUS, O., January 20.—The memorial signed by every republican member of the general assembly, recommending Governor Foster for a position in the cabinet under the new regime, was forwarded to General Garfield to-day. Governor Foster and his most intimate friends were not consulted in this matter, and are much chagrined at what they term this work of ill-advised friends. Governor Foster has written General Garfield to assure him that the memorial does not meet his approval, and that he must not be held responsible for it.

CHEYENNE, January 20.—A movement was inaugurated by prominent men in favor of ex-Senator Thayer, of Nebraska, for the secretaryship of the interior under Garfield. Thayer was governor of Wyoming four years, and is popular, and a man of splendid attainments, and understands the Indian question thoroughly. It is understood a similar movement will be started in Nebraska.

THE HUMAN DEVILS

Who Were Put to Death in South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, S. C., January 20.—The Daily Register has received the following special in regard to the recent murder and ing in Newberry county:

PROSPERITY, S. C., January 19.—As Miss Bettie Wicker was returning home on the evening of the 17th from her brother's, she was attacked by Jim Sherman, and Dave Hair, colored, employees of Miss Wicker's father and outraged. She was then tied and gagged, and Dave and Sam went to Mr. Wicker's and ate supper. Afterwards, returning to their victim, they again outraged her and then choked her to death. The body was then carried about twenty yards and laid down where a fence crossed a footpath and left, where it was afterwards found. Yesterday morning Justice Wheeler held a coroner's inquest, at which suspicion rested on the above mentioned parties. Sam confessed that he knew the deed was to be done, but claimed he was not a participant in the act. The guilty parties were in the guard house to be carried to jail to-day. During last night the guard house doors were forced open and Dave was taken to the spot where the deed was committed and there, it is said, he made a full confession that he and Sam committed the act. Dave was then tied to a pine tree and shot. The infuriated party returned to the guard house and took Sam out, shot him on the spot and left him for dead. After daylight the lacerated people reported for the bodies and they were found at Mr. Mother's in bed, with several bullet-holes in him. He was brought to Prosperity, taken about one mile from the town and hanged at seven o'clock in the evening. The hanging was participated in by both whites and blacks, and about 250 or 300 men were witnesses. Everything is quiet to night. The deed was nearly a year in being planned, according to the confessions of the murderers. Miss Wicker was highly respected.

SITTING BULL,

The Sioux Changes His Mind and Returns to Canada.

ST. PAUL, January 20.—Advices have been received at the headquarters of the department of Dakota that Chief Good Bear, Big Plume and Iron King, with fifty lodges of Sitting Bull's Indians, are now on the way to Fort Buford to surrender. Scout Allison is with them. Forty more lodges under Sitting Bull himself have left the mouth of Milk river for Canada, and as they have but about seventy miles to go are now across the line. Thompson is a deserter from the Canadian police, who lives with the Indians, paints, dresses and lies as well as the worst of them, told several Sitting Bull to is to the contrary. Sitting Bull's whole band amounted about 1,000. Three hundred and twenty five of them are now captured and at Fort Buford. As many more are on the way to surrender, so that sitting Bull himself has less than 300 men, women and children all told.

Whittaker's Larg.

NEW YORK, January 20.—The court-martial for the trial of the colored cad t, Johnson Chenuli Whittaker, convened to day in the army building in this city. The following officers composed the court: Brigadier-general N. A. Miles, president; Colonel E. A. Morrow, Twenty-first infantry; Lieut.-Colonel Pinckney Lugenbeel, First Infantry; Lieutenant Colonel J. M. Brannan, First Artillery; Major Merrell, Seventh cavalry; Major K. V. Eo Smith, Fifth cavalry; Captain K. P. Frank, 1 Ist artillery; Captain N. Craig, Tenth artillery, and Captain M. Barber, Fourteenth infantry. Major A. R. Gardner, judge advocate; D. uriel H. Chamberlain, ex-governor of South Ca olina, and Professor Greener, of Howard univ ersity, will conduct the defense. The charges, ve: 1. Conduct unbecoming an officer; 2 False swearing, to the prejudice of good order and mili tary discipline. After the usual preliminary pro ceedings, Governor Chamberlain asked for more time to prepare the case for the defense, and the court adjourned until the 4th of February.

Advancing Rates.

ST. LOUIS, January 20.—The agreement to advance railroad passenger rates, made yesterday by the roads, went into effect here to-day, and the Chicago and Alton, Wabash and Illinois Central are selling tickets to Chicago at $4.70, and the Chicago and Alton, Wabash and Missouri Pacific to Kansas City at the same price. This is the rate at which the Wabash disposed of so many unlimited tickets at the commencement of the war. All the roads to the east and north by the Chicago and Alton have been restored.

The Peruvians Defeated.

LONDON, January 21.—The Reuters telegraph company has received the following dispatch: BUENOS AYRES, January 20.—A telegram from Valparaso reports that a great battle has been fought near Chorillan, nine miles south of Lima. The Peruvians were defeated and driven from their positions with heavy loss. The Chilians hold Chorillas."

SOCIAL SNOBS

AS COMPARED WITH THE TRUE METAL.

The Flapdoodles of Washington Passed Under Review—The Neglect of the Sixth—Watching Tennessee—The Political Movements of the Day, Etc.

Special Correspondence Constitution.

WASHINGTON, January 18.—It is one of the noticeable facts of life in Washington, as well as elsewhere, that many of the most prominent people are unassuming. There is here a large element of shoddy which attracts attention by a gaudy display of wealth and an apish mimicry of extremest fashion. And such an element is to be found anywhere. But many of those who are objects of national interest and observation are simple in their manners and unostentatious in their appearance. I rode down from the capitol the other day in a five-cent omnibus in which the only other passenger was the vice president of the United States. Sir Edward Thornton, the British minister, whose salary, besides his income, is over $25,000 a year, walks every day from his home away beyond the white house to the capitol, a distance of nearly three miles. He is a trim, modest looking man with a business air and a quick, nervous step. Mr. Hill, of Colorado, who is worth a million or two, walks, while all around him dash the coaches of men who live on their congressional salary. The economy at the white house, much as it is abused, is a healthful example which has had its influence throughout the country. While there are many of the best and wealthiest men here living in simple elegance and prudently expending their money, there are others less able who flaunt their extravagance in the face of the public.

Acklen used to keep an establishment fit for a duke with lovely female attendants to answer the tap of his bell, and like eastern houses, to dance away and do his bidding. In contrast to such little men are those like the judges of the supreme court who are fixed for life on handsome incomes, but who grace their lofty lives with homelike virtues which can best adorn them. Nearly every one of them walks to the capitol as the honest tradesman trudges to his store.

THE SOUTH'S NEGLECT.

Standing in the old hall of the house of representatives, surrounded by the marble and bronze statues of men who have made the government glorious, one cannot fail to notice the absence of representative men from the south. There is a stand of statues of George Washington, which Virginia gave in the twelfth year of the young republic. But with this exception, there is no figure to tell the story of southern greatness. Entered as second-class matter in the Atlanta post-office, December 11, 1879.

ATLANTA GA JANUARY 21, 1881.

THE current prosperity of the country is perhaps best and quickest accounted for by the volume of the circulating medium, which, according to the comptroller of the currency, stood on the first day of November as follows: legal tender notes, $346,681,000; national bank notes, $342,063,000; gold coin, $444,012,000; silver coin, $158,271,000—aggregate, $1,291,027,000.

MILLIONAIRE SAWYER, of Wisconsin has secured the caucus nomination, and will of course be elected by the legislature to fill Mr. Cameron's seat. Millionaire Oliver, of Pennsylvania, is the nominee of his party and of the clan Cameron, but at this writing he has not succeeded in subduing a small rebellion among the followers of Galusha A Grow. But the barl rarely fails, and Oliver will doubtless be elected. There does not seem to be an ambitious millionaire in Tennessee.

IN another column will be found an excellent report of a fire at Jefferson, Jackson county. We need scarcely say that information of important events in any part of the state will be printed as soon as it is received. We have correspondents in the leading towns, but in the smaller places we are compelled to rely upon volunteer correspondents who desire to see the news of the state gathered and promptly printed. We invite reports of all events of interest that occur in the state.

ANY undue degradation of a man should, of course, be avoided, and for this reason the whipping-post has been very properly condemned; but there is a rising sentiment in this country in favor of the use of the whipping-post in all cases of wife-beating. The offender would only get what he gave his defenseless partner, and she and her children would not be deprived of their means of support, as would be the case if the beater were sent to prison. The lash for the wife-beater was indorsed by a New Jersey jury only a few days ago.

THE senatorial crop is nearly harvested, but no one can foretell the political complexion of the body after the first of March, because no one knows what General Mahone will do, or who will be the new Tennessee senator. Leaving these two out of the case, the senate will stand 37 democrats, 37 republicans, and a republican in the chair. If Mahone acts with the republicans, or if a republican slips in from Tennessee, the control of the body will pass out of the hands of the democrats. Mahone and Tennessee are therefore objects of great political interest.

The Funding Bill.

The funding bill, as it goes to the senate, is a wise and popular measure; and if the senate desires to meet the wishes of the great mass of the people, it will pass the bill just as it came from the house. The bill does not suit the capitalists, the national banks and the republican party, but that is no reason why it should not become a law. The capitalists want no funding bill at all; they prefer a disagreement between the two houses, because six per cent is better to them than three per cent; the national banks are in the same boat, and the republican party is controlled by and conducted in the interests of the moneyed power. The combined concern holds that a national debt is a national blessing, and the higher the rate of interest and the longer the loan lasts, the greater the blessing. The democrats on the other hand prefer a low rate of interest and the earliest possible payment of the principal. The democrats of the house have put these ideas into the new funding bill. The new bonds and certificates are to be three per cents, and are to be redeemable in from one to ten years. The national banks that hold exceptional privileges from the government are required to make their future bond deposits in the new 3s. The secretary of the treasury is limited in his expenditures to amount to [illegible] bonds to one quarter of one per cent. [illegible] the bill to be brief, and there is not a line in it that should be obscure. [illegible] can understand the bill [illegible] the "great American [illegible] Grady, or Brady, or [illegible] Kimball, or Brady [illegible] right that name—Colonel or [illegible]

Sara Bernhardt's Rival.

New York Post.

The Miss Multon of Clara Morris is an impersonation as yet unapproached by any living actress. It is marred by waywardness of gesture, by occasional crudeness of intonation and by self-consciousness, but the pathos of it is omnipotent and the genius of it indisputable. If she had never done anything else it alone would place her head and shoulders in the first ranks of emotional actresses. Every pulse in it throbs with genuine passion. Bernhardt at her best is a tyro to Miss Morris where nature is concerned. Her art, with all its intellectual supremacy, is but a poor salta ion for the simpler methods dictated by the impulse of the heart. Miss Morris, it is said, feels no qualm of the agony she portrays, but tells it nothing to the purpose. It is the semblance of reality, not reality itself, which is necessary to stage illusion, and the power of the performer is proven by the effect of simulation upon the audience, not upon the player. Salvini rises smiling from the stage after his harrowing death in "La Morte Civile," while his hearers are dissolved in tears. The actor who too truly sympathizes with the feelings which he assumes is dominated by his own nature and simply exhibits himself, not the fictitious personage of the drama.

The Franking Privilege.

Cincinnati Commercial.

The abuse of the franking privilege in under discussion again, together with a bill in the senate restoring the use of the frank to members of congress. The privilege of transmitting any matter through the mails free is not sought to be abolished. The principle should be established in practice that every ounce of matter, printed or written, sent through the mails is at public cost, should bear its equitable part of that cost. Then there would be no favoritism; the postal service would be nearly, if not quite, self-sustaining, and in a few years become a source of revenue. If this can not be done, and the privilege of franking is to be renewed, congress may as well put aside all pretense of modesty, and vote itself the use of the frank. It is only a small way of gouging the government.

Cotton Culture and Cotton Mills.

New York Mail.

The cotton crop of 1881 is likely to fully reach the estimate made by the Evening Mail some weeks ago from the best statistics then obtained, namely, 6,000,000 bales. When it is remembered that but about one-thirteenth of the cotton land of the United States is now under cultivation, it is not difficult to form an idea of the wealth the south may obtain by developing the cotton industry. From three-fifths to three-fourths of the entire crop is now exported, and the part manufactured in the United States is worth twice as much after passing through a northern cotton mills as when it is packed in bales at the south. The introduction of cotton mills, as well as the extension of the acreage of cotton culture, is essential to the most rapid advancement of the south.

Finances a Political Issue.

Brooklyn Times, rep.

The public mind is turning with wonderful alacrity to the discussion of financial questions, and for some years to come these questions are likely to absorb very general public attention. It is good that it should be so. It is good as a new diversion to the public mind; it is good as it serves as a turn table to switch the country away from the quarrels and conflicts of the past. It is good in that it involves that policy—upon which the temporal prosperity of the country very materially depends.

Crime in Pulaski.

Dublin Gazette.

The two negroes who were shot between this place and Cochran, about ten days ago, have both died, and we understand that Horn has not yet been arrested. Pulaski county beats the world for murders and no punishment. It seems that a man can perpetrate any act he wishes, and go unpunished. Within the last five or six years as many as five or six murders have been committed and not one, as we have ever heard of, has been punished. The jurors of the county alone are to blame for this. Let public opinion be what it may, criminals should be punished, and speedily, too.

—The trustees of the Lick observatory have finally closed the contract for the optical part of their great telescope. There has been considerable doubt whether a refractor or an enormous reflector would be selected, but the decision is in favor of the former. The object glass is to be three feet in diameter, and the Clarks are to make it for $50,000. The mounting for the instrument is not yet provided for. Proposals will be obtained from the principal instrument makers of this country and Europe. Probably the mechanical part of the instrument will cost as much as the optical. It may be three years before the telescope is completed. If the instrument proves successful it will be by far the most efficient ever pointed at the heavens, and, under Californian skies, ought to accomplish great things for science. Its power will exceed that of the Pulkowa glass, now constructing, by forty-four per cent, and it will be almost twice as powerful as the great telescope at Washington, which at present holds the supremacy among its kind.

A Pastor Made Happy.

I have been greatly troubled with my kidneys and liver over twenty years, and during that entire time I was never free from pain. My medical bills were enormous, and I visited both the Hot and White Springs, noted for the curative qualities of the water. I am happy to say I am now a well man, and entirely as the result of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. With such glorious results I am only too glad to testify regarding the remedy which has made me so happy. (Rev.) F. F. FARKLER.

—Of the Nautch girls, now in New York, a recent letter says: "These women are not beautiful in the face, but they have slight, graceful forms, black and shining hair, and large, round, moony eyes, that seldom look at you sharply, but almost invariably have a kind of sleepy, sensuous expression about them. Two or three of the party have prominent cheek-bones, narrow faces below the chin that point, and rather sharp chins. The rest have faces of the round and mobile type. They all part their hair straight in the middle, and pull it down over their heads in a knot behind as tightly as though it were glued to their skulls. They are a dolent in most of their motions, and they love to sit curled up on the floor, having a complete contempt for all modern furniture. The stuff of which their costumes are made seems to be composed of a mixture of silk and wool. It is about the texture one sees in the silver-gray or green winter vails which ladies wear in these latitudes, and is made in various colors. It barely conceals the color of the flesh; nothing more. It would make a glorious costume for summer. Because it would keep out the mosquitoes, it nothing else."

Gould and Vanderbilt found it was impossible to shake him out of his holdings they went ahead with their project. As nearly as they can be ascertained the Californian operator got away with about as much as either of the others, and his profits run up into the millions. This money was made fairly and squarely without doing the dirty work of shaking people out of their stock. In other words, Messrs Gould and Vanderbilt did the shouting and Mr. Keene made off with the game.—Wall Street News.

PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS,

Office: No. 32 E. Alabama st Residence Dr. C. L. Wilson, No. 123 N. Collins st., Dr C. A. Wilson, No. 67 Ellis st. jan21 d1y

State of Georgia, Fulton County—To the Superior Court of said County:

THE PETITION OF J. F. CUMMINGS, H. E. Cummings, J. B. Cummings, C. H. Strong, B. F. Abbott, F. S. Young, T. H. Brown and O. T. Terry respectfully shows that your petitioners have associated themselves together and desire an order of incorporation, declaring them a body corporate, under the corporate name of The Atlanta Electric Light Company, for the term of twenty years with the privilege of renewal.

The object of said association and the particular business to be carried on under said name is the furnishing an Electric light to the city of Atlanta, or any part thereof, and to individuals in said city by such machinery as they may see fit to employ for that purpose, at such prices as may be fixed and determined.

The capital to be employed and actually paid in, in carrying out the objects of said association is fifty thousand dollars, to be increased to one hundred thousand dollars, at the option of said association.

The place of doing business to be the City of Atlanta in said county.

Your petitioners desire corporate authority to govern themselves by such rules and by laws as they may see proper not inconsistent with the laws of said State, and power to purchase, hold and enjoy all property, both real and personal necessary to make all contracts necessary to the successful carrying out of the objects of said association, to sue and be sued, and to have and use a common seal.

Wherefore your petitioners pray that an order be passed by the Court in conformity with this petition.

McCAY & ABBOTT,
Petitioners' Attorneys.

Georgia, Fulton County:

I, J. S. Holliday, Clerk of the Superior Court in and for said county, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing petition is a true extract from the minutes of said Court.

THE SUPREME COURT

DECISIONS RENDERED JANUARY 4.

Chief-Justice James Jackson, Associate Justices Martin J. Crawford and Alexander M. Speer. Reported by Jackson & Lumpkin Supreme Court Reporters.

Hatcher & Baldwin vs. Massey et al. In Injunction and receiver, from Macon Trusts.

Jackson, C. J.—Where the complainant's debt was not charged to the trust estate in the first instance, but against the trustee as an individual, and no adjudication had been had that the trust estate was liable, and the evidence was very conflicting as to such liability, the appointment of a receiver, ad interim, on account of the trustee's insolvency was properly refused.

Judgment affirmed.

Hall & Son; J. A. Edwards, for plaintiff in error.

W. A. Hawkins; W. H. Reese, for defendants.

Doly, administrator, vs. Wray, administrator. Ejectment, from Chatham. Estates Deeds.

Jackson, C. J.—A conveyance to a woman for life, with remainder to her children, coupled with a power in her to convey to trustees to hold until her youngest child becomes of age, and then to divide among all the children, with rights of survivorship between them in case some should die without issue; and in the event all should die leaving no issue, then over to certain children of the donor—vests the remainder absolutely in the children of the tenant for life on the youngest attaining majority, and the death of all or the last one after that event, without issue, will not entitle the donee's children to the property.

Judgment affirmed.

Chisholm & Erwin; A. P. & S. B. Adams, for plaintiff in error.

S. Yates Levy; R. E. Lester, for defendant.

Dunlap vs. Hooper. Complaint from City Court of Atlanta. Evidence. Debtor and Creditor. Contracts.

Jackson, C. J.—1. The suit being upon an open account, and the defense being that the goods were purchased by the defendant's father and should have been charged to him, evidence of the plaintiff's clerk that the defendant proposed to him to open an account, that the witness replied that she would first see the plaintiff about it, that he did see plaintiff who author zed him to let defendant have the goods desired, was admissible, although such authority was given in the absence of the defendant.

(a) Had such evidence been rejected, it would not have altered the result in this case.

2. The plaintiff's books were admissible to show to whom the goods were in fact charged.

(a) They were also admissible to show the sale of some of the goods which was made and entries thereof written by the plaintiff himself; the books having been proved to be books of original entry and correctly kept, that the plaintiff had a clerk would not render such entries inadmissible.

(b) Nor were they rendered inadmissible by the fact that the books had formerly been used by a firm of which plaintiff was a member, and after the retirement of the other partner had continued to be used by the plaintiff. Nor does it matter that they were identified by a clerk, and not by the plaintiff himself.

3. Where one opened an account for groceries to be furnished to his father, the duty was upon him to notify the grocer when he refused to be longer responsible, and was not on the latter to refuse further credit without additional authority.

Judgment affirmed.

E. A. Angier, for plaintiff in error.

H. C. Erwin; H. H. Tucker, Jr., for defendant.

Downing vs. The State. Selling kerosene below test, and keeping it without proper inspection. Constitutional law. Charge of court. Witness. Evidence. Jury. New trial.

Crawford, J.—1. Though the accused has introduced no evidence prior to making his statement, and none afterwards except in reply to an attack on his statement, which the state made by its witnesses, he is not entitled to the conclusion in the argument. By introducing any testimony at all, he surrenders the conclusion.

2. A jury of five in the city court of Atlanta is authorized by statute, and not prohibited by the constitution. Local statutes prior to the constitution, not inconsistent with its provisions, are continued in force the acts of December 16th and 17th 1878, are not applicable to the city court of Atlanta.

3. If counsel representing the defendant in a criminal case desire special instructions in reference to the statement of the prisoner, in addition to the general charge as to the effect to be given it, they should make proper requests therefor.

4. 5. 6. The verdict is not contrary to law or the evidence.

7. Experts in kerosene oil are competent witnesses concerning the tests thereof although not inspectors authorized by statute.

Judgment affirmed.

George T. Fry; M. J. Clarke, for plaintiff in error.

W. D. Ellis, solicitor of city court; J. T. Pendleton; Arnold & Arnold, for the state.

Miller vs. Solomon. Lien, from Bartow.

Crawford, J.—The affidavit to foreclose a lien upon a steam saw mill must show that demand for payment was made after the debt became due. If demand be averred, but not so as to show whether it was made before due or after, the affidavit is not sufficient.

Judgment affirmed.

A. Johnson; A. B. Culberson, for plaintiff in error.

T. W. Akin; E. N. Broyles, for defendant.

Burke vs. The State, Forgery, from Fulton. Criminal law. Evidence. Practice in the superior court.

Crawford, J.—1. For forging an instrument in these times: "George, let the boy have $2 00 worth of what he wants," an indictment will lie; the other constituents of forgery concurring, the brevity and uncertainty of the instrument will not hinder a conviction.

2. Such a paper was not inadmissable in evidence on account of uncertainty.

3. It is error for the court to order the arrest of the defendant's witnesses in the presence of the jury before whom they have just given their testimony, and to have them then and there arrested on account of what they have testified. To do so amounts to an intimation from the bench that their evidence is false.

Judgment reversed.

L. J. Glenn & Son; E. A. Angier, for plaintiff in error.

B. H. Hill, Jr., solicitor general, for the state.

Broach vs. Kelly. Complaint, from Jones. Amendments. Pleadings.

Crawford, J.—The action being upon a promissory note, the declaration is not amendable by alleging that the plaintiff holds an absolute deed to certain land as security for the note, and that the defendant holds the plaintiff's bond to reconvey the land on payment of the debt, and by adding a prayer to enforce the debt against the land. The contract sought to be brought in by the amendment, to-wit, that in the deed and bond, is not identical with that contained in the note sued upon, but is altogether distinct; for which reason it is not proper matter for amendment to the declaration.

Judgment reversed.

John Rutherford; James T. Nisbet; Bacon & Rutherford, for plaintiff in error.

Blount & Hardeman; Lanier & Anderson, for defendant.

Sadler vs. Lee. Injunction. from Lee. Water-courses. Actions. Injunction.

Crawford, J.—1. While, as a general rule, water flowing under the surface may be diverted without liability to a proprietor whose land it might reach in its natural and ordinary course, yet where it has once emerged and afterwards sinks, if its exact course can be traced to where it emerges again, so as to render it certain that it is the same water, the proprietor of the surface at the latter point will be protected in its use the same as if it were not a subterranean stream.

2. Where the chancellor has denied an injunction on a doubtful state of facts, the evidence before him being conflicting, this court will not control him.

Judgment affirmed.

Hawkins & Hawkins, for plaintiff in error.

Guerry & Son, for defendants.

Stewart vs. The State. Assault with intent to Murder. New Trial. Charge of Court. Jurors. Criminal Law. Newly Discovered Evidence.

Speer, J.—1. The verdict is not contrary to law or the evidence.

2 That the names of jurors were not in the jury box or on the jury list is not a good ground for new trial, when urged for the first time after verdict.

3. Though a charge may appear to be improper when abstracted from its context, yet if, when considered therewith, it is legal and proper, it is not a ground for new trial.

4. However gross may have been an affront or injury, yet if the injured party allowed some two months to elapse, during which he frequently met the aggressor, and then, without a repetition of the wrong, sought an opportunity and shot him, he could not be excused on the ground that he had not had time for reason to resume its sway.

5. Newly discovered evidence concerning a conversation in which the defendant himself engaged is no ground for a new trial.

Judgment affirmed.

Mabry & Crovatt, for plaintiff in error.

S. W. Hitch, solicitor general; Symmes & Atkinson; Ira E. Smith, for the state.

Jackson, J., concurred, dubitante.

Cox et al. vs. Montfort, administratrix. Claim, from Macon. Officers. Levy and Sale. Claims. Notice.

Speer, J.—1. Where an officer making a levy cannot write, an entry thereof written out by another in his presence and by his procurement and signed by him with his mark is good.

2. The statute of limitations does not run against a fi fa. while it is prevented from proceeding by an injunction.

3. The requirement that notice of a levy on realty shall be given to the tenant in direction, and failure to give notice does not ipso facto render the levy void.

Judgment affirmed.

Hawkins & Hawkins; T. P. Loyd, for plaintiffs in error.

S. Hall; W. H. Fish; J. M. DuPree, for defendant.

Berrisford vs. The State. Forgery, from Fulton. Criminal Law. Evidence.

Speer, J.—1. Any writing in such form as to be the means of defrauding another may be the subject of forgery or alteration in the nature of forgery.

2. After an alteration had been shown in an instrument whereby its value was changed, evidence of its sale was admissible to prove a fraudulent interest.

Judgment affirmed.

L. J. Glenn & Son, for plaintiff in error.

B. H. Hill, Jr., solicitor general, for the state.

Weems vs. Stokes. Illegality, from Lee. Taxes. Executions.

Speer, J.—Where a tax fi fa. had been transferred, and levied at the instance of the transferree, an affidavit of illegality which alleged payment in full to him subsequently to the transfer was good; nor was it rendered demurrable by the addition of surplus matter as to the time, place and manner of payment.

Judgment reversed.

Warren & Feaman; D. H. Pope, by Z. D. Harrison, for plaintiff in error.

Hawkins & Hawkins, for defendant.

Carraway vs. Lockett. Injunction, from Sumter.

Speer, J.—There was no error in refusing an injunction in this case.

Judgment affirmed.

J. F. Watson; Guerry & Son; Allen Fort, for plaintiff in error.

Hawkins & Hawkins, for defendant.

Parks et al vs. The State. Larceny from the house, from Hall. Criminal law.

Speer, J.—Where the evidence showed the presence of the defendants in a store at night, that they lied through the front door when opened by the proprietor, and that certain articles were gone, but did not show how they obtained entrance nor any indication of the use of force, a request to charge that if they broke and entered, the crime would be burglary, not larceny, was properly refused.

Judgment affirmed.

Marier & Perry, for plaintiffs in error.

A. L. Miichell, solicitor general, by Z. D. Harrison, for the state.

Downing vs. The State. Keeping and selling kerosene oil below test, from Clay Court of Atlanta. Indictment. Criminal law. Jury. Constitutional law. Witness. Evidence. Charge of court. New trial.

Speer, J.—1. An accusation in the city court of Atlanta for keeping and selling kerosene oil below test, which is in substantial compliance with the statute under which it is drawn, is not demurrable because it does not conclude with the allegation that the acts charged are contrary to law, nor because it is not alleged that the defendant intended to do such acts.

2. Every sale of kerosine oil below test is a distinct offense, and conviction for a sale to one person is no bar to a prosecution for a subsequent sale to a different person.

3. The charge being the sale of oil below test, it is no objection to a witness, otherwise competent to testify concerning such fact, that he is not the inspector authorized by law.

4. In a prosecution for selling kerosene below the test prescribed by law, it is not an element of the state's case to prove that the defendant intended to commit the offense. When the illegal sale has been proved, the illegal intent will be presumed, and anything in rebuttal thereof is proper matter for the defense.

(a) Where the law prohibits the sale of oil below a certain test, and provides a plain and simple mode of making such test and determining the saleability of the oil, ignorance is no excuse for a dealer who sells oil below the prescribed test.

5. The accusation containing two counts—one for selling, the other for keeping kerosene below test—and the court, for the benefit of the prisoner, having withdrawn from the jury the second count, it will not necessitate a new trial that in so doing he remarked that "there was no evidence of defendant's keeping the oil unless it might be inferred from the fact that such kerosene had been sold by defendant."

6. The verdict is not contrary to law or the evidence.

Judgment affirmed.

George T. Fry; M. J. Clarke, for plaintiff in error.

W. D. Ellis, solicitor of city court, by J. T. Pendleton; Arnold & Arnold, for the state.

The Greek Question.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

ATHENS, January 19.—Great satisfaction is felt here at the rejection by the porte of the arbitration, which it is considered has finally disposed of that project. The formification of the ports of the Piraeus and Chalcio with torpedoes is discussed.

A Word to Our Readers.

When you read of a remedy that will cure all diseases, beware of it; but when you read of a pure vegetable compound which claims to cure only certain parts of a body, and furnishes high proof that it does this, you can safely try it, and with the assurance that it will help you. This is just what Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure does It cures all troubles of the lower portion of the body and none others. It will not help the tooth ache, ear-ache nor consumption, but it will put your body in a vigorous and healthy state where you can enjoy life, and appreciate its good things. Try it.

THE COTTON MARKET.

CONSTITUTION OFFICE,
Atlanta, January 20, 1881

New York—Notwithstanding the predictions to the contrary the cotton market declined to-day, and the undertone to all appearances seems dull and droopy. At the opening futures were barely steady and off ten points. Later in the morning the market developed a dull feeling which resulted in furthering the decline by noon. In the afternoon fluctuations were generally of a moderate character and but little change is noticed in quotations. At the close the market moved off a few points with an easy tone quoted. The opening and closing quotations show no quotable change. The spot market opened quiet and steady, but by noon a dull feeling was established which remained up to the close; middling 11 15 16c. Net receipts for five days amount to 110,362 bales; exports 99,137 bales; stock 903,0 8 bales.

Below we give the opening and closing quotations of cotton futures in New York to-day:

Liverpool—Futures closed steady. Spots—Uplands 6 9-16d; Orleans 6¾d; sales to-day 8,000 bales, of which 6,200 bales were American; receipts 3,200; American none.

We note a better demand in our market to-day, and notwithstanding the New York market declined a little, sellers were able to obtain more satisfactory prices than on yesterday. There seems to be more demand than stocks, and as buyers had a few small orders that had to be filled, there was no stiff ulty in making sales at the prices quoted. Holders are generally of the opinion that a reaction in the market is soon to take p ace; but at all events no very important change is likely to occur soon. It is a matter of surprise to many that the market should decline in the midst of such an unusual spell of weather, and hence are inclined to be bearish, but the weather at present seems to be broken, and in a short time we can expect to see a change in the market in some direction. The local futures market keeps active, and sales each day are as good as can be expected. Receipts to-day amount to 187 bales, of which 8 bales were received from wagons. We quote the market steady as follows: Good middling 11¾c; middling 11c; strict low middling 10¾c; low middling 10¾c; strict good ordinary 9¾c; ordinary 7½c; storm and stains 7⅞@9¾c.

A MEAN TRICK.

The Singer Manufacturing Co. are circulating a copy of an old injunction against Kayser Bros. of New York, for using the Singer name, also an injunction against A. J. Brill, of Cincinnati, for using the word singer in the sale of an imported machine, the head machine being ornamented like the Singer.

These injunctions may or may not be binding on parties using or dealing in the machines, and the serving of copies of said injunctions on parties dealing in said machines may or may not be right, but the act is A BASE TRICK of seeking the dealers handling the "Genuine Stewart" and addressing a special circular to them, which is tantamount to a libel on the "Stewart"—which the Singer Company knows is sold only on its own name and merits—is plainly visible.

The circular was not sent to Fred. Bell & Co., whom they know handle every Stewart Machine sent into the states of Georgia, Alabama, south Carolina and Florida, but only to retail dealers, whom they hope to scare off from selling the only machine that has a right to the form and name of the Singer, but does not care to use it, and is in no case sought to be sold under the Singer name.

If the Singer Company are sincere in their warnings, let them proceed against the undersigned. We challenge them to do so. Our office is exactly opposite their's, in Atlanta, and they know where to find us—although they frequently tell parties seeking the Stewart office that they don't know where it is. For the benefit of our short sighted Singer friends we append our name and address.

Charlotte Thompson.

To-night DeGive's opera-house will be filled with a cultured audience, drawn thither by the announcement that Charlotte Thompson, supported by a dramatic company in every way worthy of the actress, will give a rendition of the new society drama "The Painter's Wife." The standing of Charlotte Thompson as an actress is too well known to require more than the mention of her name in connection with a play and the very fact that she is playing "The Painter's Wife" is a sufficient guarantee that it is a comedy drama of unusual merit. While the scene is laid in the south, the play can hardly be said to be an attempt to portray southern life. It abounds in thrilling scenes and the purest humor and can hardly fail to please the audience which will go out to-night to witness its presentation. To-morrow the company will give a matinee in the afternoon with an entertainment again at night.

Things I Would Like to See.

I would like to see the fostering care of the government over her citizens so exercised practically, that the sale of all articles of food which, upon analysis, are declared injurious and unfit for the human stomach, be strictly prohibited by law—such as glucose, sugars, syrups etc, adulterated baking powders, and a host of other obnoxious products of daily consumption—it does look like pushing "liberty" to a shameful extreme when one considers the unrestricted sale of food and drink known to be positively unhealthful, but the license given makes he practice among us appear common and legitimate, that of selling anything which pays a profit to anybody who may interfere ully or ignorantly buy, no matter who it hurt. If creditably informed, England perhaps looks after the interests and welfare of her people in matters of this kind more than any other nation—for even the home brewing of beer (the national beverage) has first to pass the test of the excise man before exposure for sale at the wayside tavern, and so with wines, liquors and other things of doubtful use and consumption—adulterated articles of any kind are invariably forfeited and destroyed. I would like to see a similar term of office established throughout the United States, from president to pound keeper, any one of whom may be impeached, removed or discharged and his bond forfeited on proof of dishonesty, financial awkwardness, "incoherency" dilection of duty and the like, and his place filled by competent authority, otherwise (during good behavior) each to continue in the full enjoyment of his or her emoluments for the term of say the presidential term of four years. What a blessing to have the country convulsed, business paralyzed and bar rooms closed by politics and elections once every four years instead of four times every year.

"The Pirates of Penzance."

Charles H. Kreblis, business agent of D'Oyly Carte's opera company, is in the city and has arranged for his troupe to favor Atlantians with a presentation of Gilbert & Sullivan's latest opera, "The Pirates of Penzance, or, the Slave of Duty." The opera is said to be equal to Pinafore, and receives high praise at the hands of the press of New York, Boston and Philadelphia. It will be presented here on the 28th and 29th with a Saturday matinee. The company is pronounced a good one and is forty-five strong.

THE NEW ROAD

THAT ATLANTA PROPOSES TO BUILD.

A Meeting of the Corporators of the Proposed New Road Into Alabama Yesterday—Measures Looking to the Progress of the Work —Mr. Murphy Interviewed.

Yesterday there was a meeting of the incorporators of the Atlanta and Alabama railroad at Mayor English's office. The meeting was for the purpose of receiving the reports of the various committees appointed at the last meeting and was well attended, only two or three of the incorporators being absent.

President Murphy called the meeting to order and Mr. Castleman read the proceedings of the last session.

The committee to whom was delegated the subscription question reported that they had not thoroughly perfected their plans but made report of progress.

The committee upon by-laws asked further time, which was granted.

After the committees had reported the proposed road was warmly discussed by all present, and only the most implicit confidence in its building was expressed.

As soon as an adjournment was had a CONSTITUTION reporter button-holed Mr Anthony Murphy, the president, for an interview

"So you think the Georgia Western will be built at last, do you?"

"Oh, yes; if not the Georgia Western, the Atlanta and Alabama railway will surely be built The gentlemen who have the matter in hand are men who don't play, but work."

"Talk's cheap, Mr. Murphy, and that's all that I've seen in connection with this railroad company."

"Then you must be cross-eyed. There are too many important facts backing up the building of the railroad to make it a question of doubt, and the road will surely be built ultimately if not now. Why, the question of fuel alone will guarantee the building of the road. This question is a most important one, not only so far as Atlanta is concerned, but the country south of Atlanta will be as greatly benefited as Atlanta itself. Take the Georgia railroad to Augusta and its branches north of Augusta. Also, on the line of the Central to Macon, and the West Point road to Lagrange. All this section of the state would be benefited by cheap coal. Then again these roads ought to be as much interested in the growth of Atlanta as they would be in the growth of Augusta, Savannah and Macon.

"In what particular way do you think these roads would be benefited?"

"Suppose the population of Atlanta was seventy-five thousand, would not the business of these roads increase in proportion? That would necessarily cause larger dividends and consequently enhance the value of the stock in each of these roads, as it would their real estate in Atlanta, hence there ought to be no antagonism; their interests are mutual—and their necessities almost equal in point of fuel."

Mr. Murphy, give me some of the benefits which the city of Atlanta will reap from the building of this road?"

"A large majority of our people buy their coal by retail. It costs them generally, with or without the combinations said to exist, this winter, 30 cents per bushel. I believe when our road reaches the coal fields it can be retailed at 15 cents per bushel. This is a saving of 50 per cent. Coal can then be laid down at $3 per ton or less, and I am inclined to think it will be less. As to what this will add to the prosperity of Atlanta it would be useless to speak; and it is absolutely necessary to reach the fuel in this section in order to get it cheap. You may talk of the great coal fields of Tennessee, but the distance they have to haul it, will always make it impossible to compete with our road, besides the consumption is now greater than the supply, and will keep pace with it for some time to come. With the experience of the present winter what man in Atlanta can not subscribe five per cent on the taxable value of his real estate and stock in trade to the building of this road—yes even more."

"But suppose the road was started next week, what effect would it have on real estate in Atlanta? Would it not increase it 10 per cent?"

"Yes, 20 per cent at least. But put it at 10; even 5 per cent in Atlanta who would sell for less if work was commenced, and he would find ready sale for any piece of property at that advance. Very well, this would be a gain of five per cent. an increase of five per cent on his property and stock, to say nothing of the amount which he would gain in the reduction in the price of coal. As to what our population and manufacturing interests would gain, I will not draw on my imagination at present, but leave others to assist me on that line. With these facts presented, I think every one in Atlanta who can possibly do so will take stock in this enterprise liberally and freely when called upon, which will hortly be done. If we expect aid to build this road, the people of Atlanta must do something themselves to show their faith in it."

"I believe the line of survey has already been made?"

"Yes, a glance at this map will show the route that has been surveyed. We pass through a healthy country, good lands and pure water, well timbered and with a healthy population in Georgia. When we cross the Alabama line, there is a great deal of government land that can be pre-empted or homesteaded, also railroad land—bounded by the railroad from Birmingham, east of the Georgia line, in certain townships which will be occupied as soon as this road is commenced, greatly increasing the population, which means increased business both ways. In crossing the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad, we open a field for all-rail trade. The number of iron furnaces near this crossing will all be feeders and add to the business of the road both ways."

"Do you think this will bring a large increase of trade to Atlanta?"

"Yes, by a former survey one projected line of the road ran near Oxford or Anniston, a town in use if built up by those enterprising and successful business men the Tylers and Nobles, who have about finished a large cotton factory in connection with their large iron interests. Atlanta will be their natural market. The road being short, and under one management, would insure low freight rates in favor of our merchants. There will not be long before all those furnaces will be consuming coke instead of charcoal. This will be supplied from that end of the road west of the Coosa river, which increases the business of the road both ways. First to supply the population that will fill up the country and to develop the coal and iron banks so numerous in that section. It will also cross the Coosa river, which will be a feeder to it, by lumber we see on its banks as well as the products from its fertile lands; and as the population increases, to develop the mineral interests, it must necessarily increase and improve the farming interests, still adding to the increased business of the road. Reaching Birmingham and connecting with its two great lines of roads crossing at that place, will of itself contribute largely to the business of our road. Birmingham is now on the ascending grade of prosperity. A large rolling mill, just put in operation, numbers of coke ovens now built and more building, a large mill in prospect for the manufacture of steel, all requiring an increased population, means increased popularity for Atlanta and Alabama railroad; first, on account of its close proximity to Atlanta for a cheap wholesale and retail market, where these people can get what they want in almost any line in one hour's return the next, and at low fare and freight."

"Some of our citizens speak of a narrow gauge. Why not build this a narrow gauge?"

"I have heard it mentioned and would advocate the plan to the timber, coal and iron fields, through which we pass, were it not that its future as a great trunk line from Port Royal or Charleston for freight and from New York by the Piedmont Air-Line for travel, thus giving a direct line to none available point on the Mississippi river connecting with the Southern Pacific to California. No, this natural connecting link stands so inviting that I cannot advocate the building of a narrow gauge road to the coal fields, unless we are compelled to do so."

"Would such a road pay?"

"There is no doubt about it. Colonel L. P. Grant, in his report to the directors of the Georgia Western in 1875, says that road will pay 12 per cent, and I consider him good authority on the subject. As an engineer he is able, besides his knowledge of the resources of Georgia and Alabama is unparalleled. I could tell you much more, but have not time just now."

THE COURTS.

Fulton Superior Court.

In the superior court yesterday Herbert Rakestraw, convicted of rape, was granted a new trial and allowed to plead guilty to a misdemeanor, for which he was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs or serve on the county public works for eleven months.

In the case of the Constitution's Bill vs. J. W. Phillips & Co. an order was taken setting down the case for Monday next.

The case of McGaughey vs. The City of Atlanta, to enjoin the authorities from interfering with and abating as a nuisance his stock and slaughter pen near the Central railroad depot, was laid over temporarily.

A motion for new trial was made in the case of Mrs. S. Bulow vs. John Neal, but was refused and the case will go to the supreme court.

The City Court.

Nothing was done in the city court yesterday except to adjourn for the balance of the week.

Musical Entertainment at the Markham Last Evening.

The band from the barracks came in last night in full force to play at the opera-house, where Dr. Wills was to have delivered his lecture on the persecution of the Jews in Germany, but the weather being very inclement the lecture was postponed, and the band spent the evening at the Markham house, the present home of Dr. Wills, where the large number of guests and the many strangers who called in were greatly delighted with the splendid music rendered on the occasion. We are informed that this lecture, which so many desire to hear, will be delivered as soon as the weather becomes more favorable at which time the band will be present to enliven the occasion with its sweet music. Due notice will be given the public.

Sara Bernhardt.

A reporter of THE CONSTITUTION called on Mr. DeGive last night to learn what had been heard concerning the coming of Miss Bernhardt, but was informed that the looked-for telegram had not arrived. So that we are still not certain that she will visit Atlanta.

Died,

At the residence of his mother, No. 153 Whitehall street, of induced consumption, yesterday, the 20th inst., Mr. James J. Byers, aged 24 years and 5 days. He was a grand nephew of General Albert Sidney Johnston and a grandson of Dr. John McKinney, of this city. His funeral will take place from the Catholic church, on Loyd street, at 3:30 o'clock this evening. The friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

After an illness of several months with a painful disease, Mrs. Hoke, wife of Judge S. Hoke, died at her residence in Augusta, January 19th. She was an affectionate wife, a devoted mother and exemplary Christian. To the family, in its sad affliction, we extend our sympathy.

Our New Mayor.

Mayor English has begun his administration under most favorable auspices, and should it so continue it will always mark an era of prosperity in Atlanta's history. Soon after his installation into the office he began an inspection of the bill of expenses, and already has reduced the price of gas $3 per post. Twenty-three dollars has been the charge heretofore, but by the reduction $20 will be the amount paid hereafter. This makes a saving to the city of $1,200 per annum, and according to Uncle Jonathan Norcross's figures will mean a mile of Atlanta's streets.

His selection for chairman of the finance committee has met with universal approbation, and we are informed that Mr. Lowry has perfected arrangements by which the city can procure all the money she may need at 6 per cents per annum.

He has also just completed an arrangement by which General McRae, of the Western and Atlantic railroad, will cause a new flagstone crossing between Whitehall and Peachtree streets, which, when completed, will be quite an improvement.

PERSONAL MENTION.

—J. P. Earl, freight and ticket agent of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad, passed through the city yesterday, accompanied by a party of nine en route to Florida.

—Jno. O. Stewart, of Griffin, is now connected with trane, Boylston & Co., of this city. We welcome Mr. Stewart to our city, knowing him to be an upright honorable gentleman, just such as we want to become citizens.

Excitement in a Church.

CINCINNATI, January 20.—As religious services were progressing on Sunday night or two since in the church of Rev. G. Rigby, at somerset, Kentucky, a couple of well connected young ruffians entered the church, one riding a horse and the other swinging a howling dog by the hind legs. The young man who was mounted whipped his horse down the aisle till in front of the altar, where he denounced the minister and the congregation in violent and profane language. A scene of excitement followed, and the profane intruder was more quickly driven from the church by the members. The episode, however, put an end to the services. The young men were inspired to the exploit by Kentucky whisky. No arrests.

Protesting Against Monopolies.

ST. LOUIS, January 20.—The members of the cotton exchange held a meeting this afternoon, at which the consolidation of the telegraph companies was freely discussed. After a pretty general expression of opinion that a protest against the consolidation would avail nothing in view of the fact that amalgamation was already practically accomplished, a resolution was adopted for the appointment of a committee of three to confer with the New York cotton exchange with a view of having the telegraph service performed by a company so organized as to prevent its being absorbed by, or consolidated with any other existing company or companies. The resolution favoring government control of the telegraph lines of the country was defeated.

Brown's Fertilizer Distributor.

A letter from Lieutenant-Governor McEnery, of Louisiana, in which he highly indorses Dr. Brown and the "distributor," which is making a stir among the farmers is given below. We had the pleasure of meeting Dr. B., in our sanctum a few days ago. He was in Atlanta on business connected with his distributor.

MONROE, LA., January 14, 1881.—Dr. C. A. Simpson, Atlanta, Ga.: Dear Sir: Your favor of the 5th instant received. Dr. D. C. Brown, patentee of "Brown's Fertilizer Distributer" resides in this parish. He is son-in-law of David Faulk, an old resident and one of our most prominent citizens.

I have known Dr. Brown favorably for many years. He is recognized here as a gentleman of high standing and character. You can implicitly rely upon the genuineness of the certificates in his possession relative to the value of his distributor. I am not a planter, and therefore cannot say from experience as to the value of his invention, but from the comments of the planters and the manner in which it is spoken of by practical planters, I have no hesitancy in saying it is the valuable machine he represents it to be. Respectfully yours,
Signed, S. D. MCENERY.

The rush is wonderful. The reduction in prices made on goods at Dougherty's is causing a great sensation. I heard one lady say that she bought to-day at Dougherty's, the exact goods for 15c. per yard that he had formerly sold for 20c. There is certainly a magic about his manner of business, for his store is always thronged with customers. It is indeed wonderful to see the crowds. It will pay you to call.
